AIRPORT SECURITY 2013

17-18 SEPTEMBER 2013

VÁCLAV HAVEL AIRPORT PRAGUE

> CZECH REPUBLIC

Airport security represents the number one operating cost within the airport industry, and yet new security requirements can appear often without warning and on top of other onerous and uncoordinated regulations.

The challenges airports face represent a potential compromise to the free flow of passenger and vehicle traffic in an environment that relies upon 24 hour synchronised movements. Delays and shutdowns in airports translate into millions in lost revenues for airlines, operators and all of the businesses supporting them.

International Airport Review’s inaugural two day conference will bring together Heads of Security from major global airports, to discuss the impact of the most recent changes in regulations as well as showcasing what they are doing to implement leaner, state of art systems that not only enhance passenger security but also improve customer satisfaction.
